

After council election gains, BNP challenges for parliament

TYNDALL FOR DAGENHAM!

FLUSHED with its big gains in May's local government elections, the British National Party will be contesting the parliamentary by-election in Dagenham, to take place on 9th June. The Party's candidate will be its leader John Tyndall.

For the first time ever the BNP is entering a parliamentary election with a real chance to win.

Disillusionment with the parties of Westminster is at the highest level within living memory. The best the 'Opposition' parties have to offer as alternatives to an incompetent and disastrous Tory Government and Prime Minister are the unwholesome spectre of Labour's hard-left bully-boys and the equally odious wife-cheating Paddy Ashdown and his Liberal Democrats, whose policies are so vague and indistinct that few voters even know what they are.

REALITY

The reality in that on Europe, Immigration, the Economy, Law and Order and almost everything else the actual programmes of the Tories, Labour and the Liberal Democrats are virtually the same. For the people of Dagenham who want real change there is only one possible option: VOTE BNP — VOTE TYNDALL!

If John Tyndall is returned to parliament on June 9th he will be the only party leader in the House, and almost the only MP of any kind, who will speak out strongly....

- Against British membership of the European Union and for British national independence.
- Against all further non-white immigration, and for a programme of humane repatriation of the ethnic minorities to their ancestral homelands.
- Against unrestricted imports of foreign manufactured goods and for the protection of British industry.
- Against soft treatment of violent criminals and for bigger jail sentences, tougher prisons and the return of the death penalty.

For many years, the British people have had to suffer politicians in parliament who claim to represent them but have constantly defied their wishes on these vital issues. At the same time the people have been denied a voice on those issues by the refusal of the politicians to consult them by referenda. But now the people of Dagenham have the choice to make their voice heard on these matters. By voting for John Tyndall and the BNP on June 9th they can deliver a clear message to the government, the parties and the nation that they have had enough — that they want real change.

Don't miss this opportunity on June 9th. Make a real protest.

VOTE TYNDALL.

(Right) If British National Party leader John Tyndall is elected as MP for Dagenham, he will speak up for the British people

Time to make a real PROTEST

For many years the British people have become accustomed to the politicians and parties in parliament arrogantly ignoring their wishes on the great issues facing our country — whether it be Europe, Immigration, Crime and Punishment or whatever. And yet over all these years the people have continued to elect those politicians and parties to office — believing that there are no alternatives.

In the by-election in Dagenham on the 9th June there is an alternative. The voters of this constituency have the rare opportunity to elect a man who will be totally different, who will represent the views of the great silent majority on these issues, the silent majority who have had no voice in parliament for so long. They will have the opportunity to make a real protest by voting for the British National Party candidate JOHN TYNDALL. Now is the time for the people to show their disgust at the politicians who have let them down so badly. This opportunity must not be missed!

THE REAL MEANING OF MILLWALL

Everyone is by now aware that the BNP lost its only council seat in last month's election.

What is rather less well known is that this occurred despite a massive increase in the BNP vote.

Derek Beackon's vote improved by an incredible 38 per cent on his total last September. His fellow BNP candidates in Millwall — Gordon Callow and Alan Smith — also improved on that result by nearly 20 per cent.

The BNP is seeking a judicial review of the election, and an official investigation to ascertain whether massive fraud took place. The details of the party's allegations are discussed more fully on page 8 of this newspaper.

What can be said with certainty is that we did not lose Millwall through any reduction in votes. In fact, the number of votes gained by the BNP was the highest in its history.

This was true not only in Millwall but elsewhere.

Just over a year ago, the BNP was rejoicing at gaining a single result of 627 votes (20 per cent of the poll) in a council by-election at Millwall. It was the best result ever achieved by the party at that time, and was regarded as a sensational result. Last month, that result was bettered by no less than twelve BNP candidates. This was despite the fact that the BNP was this time fighting over thirty seats, and thus spreading its resources far more thinly.

The votes achieved in London and elsewhere last month were the best ever achieved by a nationalist party in Britain. A report in the Independent newspaper the following Saturday stated: "The failure of the British National Party to win a council seat in East London masks a huge increase in local support for the ultra-right organisation."

It is no exaggeration to say that the BNP's latest election results are in fact a more important breakthrough than the Millwall victory last September.

TORY/LABOUR/LIB DEMOCRAT — WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

If you're choosing between voting for the Tories, Labour or the Liberal Democrats in the Dagenham by-election, think carefully about what choice you really have. These three parties may look different and sound different, but on the major issues their policies are almost exactly the same. If you doubt this, look at the facts here — and compare their policies with those of the BNP.

A VERY QUEER COUNCIL!

THE Labour Party has never made any secret of the fact that it encourages homosexual perverts within its ranks.

But until now, the Conservatives have usually tried to disguise the fact that their party is riddled with queers.

Yet within the past few months, the Tories have become as aggressive as Labour in campaigning for queer 'rights'.

ODIOUS

The odious Tory MP Edwina Currie recently sponsored a Bill to allow queers to bugger boys as young as sixteen (see page five). And now the Conservative Mayor of Derby, Robin Wood, has boasted: "I'm gay, but so what?"

Wood supports lowering the age of queer sex to 16. He says: "Heterosexuals and lesbians are allowed to have sex at 16. It's only gay men who are discriminated against."

Amazingly, Wood shares a home with another former Tory Lord Mayor. It seems being a queer certainly helps get to the top in the Tory Party!

RACKET

Robin Wood boasts he is the longest-serving member of the 'Derby Racial Equality Council' (whatever that is), proving that the Tories as well as Labour are up to their necks in the 'anti-racism' racket.

Tories confirm their image as a bunch of public school poofs

The British National Party is now the only political party which wants to see homosexuality made illegal again. The BNP believes British people need to be protected from these odious perverts, particularly as many of them are infecting our community with filthy diseases such as AIDS.

DISEASES

Queers not only spread AIDS and other appalling diseases, they are a danger to the moral welfare of our children. Queers often claim that they only want to bugger adults, and that they are no more a danger to young boys than normal men are to young girls.

Yet this argument is simply not supported by the facts. Only a few weeks ago, the homo lobby launched a massive campaign, spearheaded by odious Tory MP Edwina Curry, to get the 'age of consent' for queers lowered to just sixteen. This would in effect allow homosexuals to bugger school-boys — which is precisely what they have always claimed they did not want to do.

PROPAGANDA

The Conservative government, abetted by left-wing local authorities, is still allowing homosexual propaganda to be fed to our school children. This occurs not only in schools, but via television (all the popular soap operas have a lovable 'gay' character), pop music, and any other medium which can carry the perverted message.

Since political liberalism took hold in the 'swinging sixties', the long-suffering public have been forced to accept revolting perversions and immoral ideologies as 'normal'. The attitude of the controlled media is that if we do not accept homosexuality, pornography and other perversions legalised by Tory and Labour governments, it is us who are abnormal.

And it doesn't stop there. Once the liberal left gets a foothold, its arrogant demands simply become ever more strident — and Tory governments are just as happy to surrender as Labour governments. Remember, it was a Tory MP, Edwina Curry, who led the demand for buggery at sixteen.

Already, we are under pressure from the Hard Left to legalise drugs such as cannabis. If this happens, how long will it be before we are told to legalise heroine or crack? This is how the cancer of liberalism spreads, beginning with small concessions and gradually chipping away at every established rule in society. The Tories are in the end just as weak as Labour in failing to stand up to the left-wing bully boys. This is why John Major's 'back to basics' policy collapsed.

THE MOTOR INDUSTRY: A GRIM FUTURE?

Dagenham is rightly proud of its place as a major centre of Britain's motor industry. The local Ford works not only employs over 9,000 directly but many thousands more in the area earn their living serving Fords or are indirectly dependant upon it by way of Fords' employees being their customers. If Fords were to close down, or to create large redundancies, it would be disastrous for the whole area.

CHEAP LABOUR

But these things could happen, and they could happen quite soon. It is generally recognised throughout the business world that investment capital is moving to the countries where labour is cheapest, mainly on what is called the Asian Rim: Singapore, Malaysia, Taiwan, North and South Korea and, not least, China. Even in advanced Japan labour costs are much lower than in Britain, Europe or the U.S.A.

PRODUCTION

What is to stop Fords, or any other motor company in Britain for that matter, shutting down its factories and transferring production to Asia — when by doing so it can produce its vehicles more cheaply and still make bigger profits for its shareholders?

Indeed, companies like Fords probably will be forced to do this before long simply to stay in business — for if they do not others will, and they just could not compete with that cheap labour, no matter how hard or efficiently their employees work.

The Tory Government has made itself powerless to stop this. It is committed to a policy which allows the free movement of investment capital across the world, with no recognition of natural boundaries at national interests. And not only that, it is equally committed to free trade. That means motor vehicles made in these cheap labour Asian factories being imported into Britain to sell at prices with which British factories cannot possibly compete.

NO ALTERNATIVE

And Labour and the Liberal Democrats offer no alternative. They are committed to exactly the same policies. If you doubt us, ask them!

So what hope for British motor workers, whether under Tory, Labour or Liberal Democrat governments?

This leaves the BNP. How would the BNP protect Britain's vulnerable motor industry?

STRICT CURBS

We would do three things. First, a BNP Government would place strict curbs on the movement of investment capital out of Britain. Owners of factories in this country would not be allowed to send capital abroad except in special cases where government could be convinced that the British economy would benefit — and these most certainly would not include cases of 'relocation' whereby factories in Britain were shut down in order to transfer production overseas.

SELECTIVE BANS

Second, a BNP Government would place selective bans on imports into this country, which would include most categories of goods which can be produced in Britain. Most certainly, motor vehicles would be among these. In effect, it would mean that eventually no motor vehicles would be imported. In the shorter term, strict quotas for imports

DAGENHAM faces disaster if the Ford Motor Company (above) closes down and transfers its production to Third World countries. Yet this could indeed happen in the near future. The present Tory Government — and Labour and the Liberal Democrats — support the free movement of investment capital across borders. This means they would do nothing to stop the American owners of Fords 'relocating' in Malaysia, Korea or some other far off country where labour is cheap and production costs a fraction of what they are in Britain. The British National Party, on the other hand, would not permit factories to be closed in Britain in order for jobs to be provided for Third Worlders. We would strictly control the movement of investment capital so as to ensure that it served the needs of industry in Britain.

would be granted while motor industry production in the United Kingdom expanded to cater for the increase in the home market. With this expansion, import quotas would be progressively reduced until they amounted to zero, when all demand for motor vehicles would be met by British factories.

FOREIGN BOARDROOMS

Finally, as is well known, most of what is left of the motor industry in Britain today is foreign-owned, including of course Fords. We in the BNP regard this as a wholly undesirable state of affairs, as it means that decisions affecting the livelihoods of British motor industry workers are made in foreign boardrooms. It would be our policy eventually to bring about the transfer of such firms as Fords to British ownership, so that the decisions affecting the future of these companies would be made in this country and outside foreign influence or control.

Only by these measures can a strong motor industry in Britain be preserved and the jobs of British motor workers be protected.

GOODBYE TO BRIAN GOULD

Most Dagenham folk will know that this month's by-election in the constituency has been caused by the resignation and political retirement of the formerly sitting Labour MP Brian Gould.

There are doubtless some issues on which Mr. Gould and we would have disagreed, and we doubt if he would have supported the strong stand the BNP makes against immigration. Nevertheless, these differences notwithstanding, we regard Brian Gould as one of the better MPs of the Labour Party. He had the courage to oppose the party's policy of committing Britain to a single European currency and incorporating Britain into the European Union. For this he deserves our respect — which is not something that can be said for many other leading lights of his party.

It is a scarcely concealed fact that it was Brian Gould's growing disgust with Labour and its betrayal of the British people that brought about his premature retirement from political life and his return to his native New Zealand. It would be completely futile for the electors of Dagenham to suppose that by voting Labour in this coming election they will again get a member of parliament who will show the same concern for their interests — of that happening there is little chance!

The lies they tell about the BNP...

There is not the slightest doubt that as the election campaign in Dagenham warms up the opponents of the British National Party will be out in force trying to wind the voters up against us by use of the 'Big Lie' technique. Here are just a few of the whoppers they will be telling you.

HEALTH SERVICE

One poster put up during May's council elections made the ridiculous allegation that the BNP's policy was to abolish the National Health Service. The 'evidence' used to support this was a single article published in one of our magazines which made some critical comments about the way the Health Service was run but in no way proposed its abolition. For the record, the writer of this article has spent a large part of his lifetime as an NHS administrator.

bandwagon here and subscribe to the same allegations.

What are the facts? During the recent council elections there were three serious incidents of violence involving the BNP. Each one took place against our people. First, a parcel bomb exploded in the face of the party's Head of Administration as he opened some mail. Next, a BNP candidate was savagely attacked in the street while he was canvassing, and he received injuries which resulted in the loss of his right eye. Then the party's Press Officer was set upon and badly beaten up by three men who gained entry to his home posing as council officials.

ATTACKS

Our opponents made their policy clear in a TV programme, Open Space, shown in 1992 with the willing

BNP PRESS Officer Mike Newland (Left) was viciously assaulted by opponents of the Party. This was the latest in a series of attacks against the BNP, during which a BNP election candidate lost an eye, and a Party official was injured by a parcel bomb

Just to get things straight, the BNP, far from seeking to do away with the National Health Service, would in fact ensure more money was spent on it than is the case now. We would find this money by abolishing most of Britain's overseas aid programme. We believe our obligation is to care for the sick in this country, not in Ethiopia or Mozambique.

'ANTI-NAZI LEAGUE'

Another ruse our opponents employ is to call us 'Nazis'. Indeed, the most prominent anti-BNP organisation in this country has the nerve to call itself the 'Anti-Nazi League'.

Just what is a 'Nazi'? In the minds of most people a Nazi is a totalitarian — one who does not respect the rights of those who hold different opinions and who wants to ban such people by law.

Well, the fact is that the BNP fully respects the rights of those who hold opinions different from its own. We have not suggested any ban being placed on the 'Anti-Nazi League' — although they have repeatedly demanded that we be banned. When the ANAL was recently refused permission to hire a meeting hall for a rally against the BNP in East London we publicly opposed that refusal.

BANNED

Under a BNP Government, every political party, of whatever shade, would have the right to hire publicly-owned meeting halls in all parts of the country. As things are at present, the BNP is itself banned from hiring meeting halls in almost every area and under whatever local authority — Tory, Labour or Liberal Democrat.

In other words, our opponents falsely accuse us of the very things of which they are guilty themselves!

The other big lie put out by the opponents of the BNP is the one which alleges we use violence. The mass media have been quick to jump on the co-operation of the BBC. In this programme one of their spokesmen, claiming to represent a group calling itself 'Anti-Fascist Action', called openly for the BNP to be met "by force" and physically "smashed." The actions of the BNP's opponents both before and since that time have been consistent with this call. There have been repeated physical attacks on our members by 'Anti-Fascist Action' and the 'Anti-Nazi League' — though of course there has been little of this in the papers.

For our part, we maintain the right of our members to defend themselves if they are attacked but we strictly forbid them to use force against anyone in any other circumstances. Annex 1 of our Constitution, entitled 'Code of Conduct', specifically states:-

"No member of the party is permitted to attack physically, or in any other way inflict physical harm on, any other person... whatever the provocation."

So the next time you hear about the BNP being referred to as a 'party of violence', understand this story for what it is — a piece of propaganda fiction, put out by our opponents to deflect attention from their own, very real, record of violence — mainly against us!

The vicious thuggery of extreme left-wing groups is often given the full backing of the official media, which seeks to pervert the truth about patriotic groups such as the BNP.

RIOTERS

A favourite ruse is to publish photos of left-wing rioters in action, but with commentary implying that these people are 'the BNP' themselves, or alternatively that the BNP's very presence 'provoked' the leftist mobs into their savage behaviour.

This is rather like saying the victim of a street-robbery 'provoked' the mugger by being a law-abiding citizen!

NOT WANTED HERE: Big-time benefit swindlers who rip off the British taxpayer

THE Tories are forever pretending that they are going to "get tough" with benefits scroungers.

But it seems the "tough" policy is only to be applied to relatively small fry who do the occasional bit of work on the side to supplement their meagre dole handouts.

POLITICALLY CORRECT

When it comes to the real fraudsters, it seems the 'politically correct' lobby won't allow such a heavy-handed approach.

Harbahjan 'Fadse' Chima was caught red-handed by police officers investigating a huge DSS swindle in Charlton, south London.

Within minutes of arresting Chima, officers found £250,000 worth of benefit books which he had printed.

BENEFITS fraudster Geraldine Oriola "systematically attacked the root of our welfare state"

'FADSE' Chima under arrest

He had earlier told an under-cover reporter: "Getting the money is easy! The beauty is they don't chase you, they don't arrest you, they can't. We print in amounts that are easy to add up, we don't want the cashier wasting time with sums."

FRAUD

Meanwhile, a "scheming" woman staged a £150,000 fraud over six years to send her children to top public schools.

Geraldine Oriola was jailed for three years and nine months after admitting eight counts of fraud.

Inner London crown court was told Oriola used at least five false names to claim income support. The former sociology student also claimed housing benefit from Sheffield City council for addresses she did not live at. She made multiple applications for first mortgages without declaring two of her properties.

Prosecutor Mr Edward Lewis said: "Oriola systematically attacked the root of our welfare state by betraying the trust tax-payers expect from claimants."

SHOCKING

If these individual cases appear shocking, there are far worse frauds being run by organised gangs. According to a recent report by the Sunday Times, "Britain is losing hundreds of millions of pounds a year to a sophisticated network of Nigerian criminals involved in international fraud and illegal benefit claims."

INSIDE INFORMATION

According to the ST, police enquiries have revealed that dozens of well-educated, highly-trained Nigerians have been assigned to get jobs in government offices and local authorities in Britain to provide inside information on how to defraud the benefits system.

Nigerian operatives attend 'fraud schools' in London and Lagos and are issued with a booklet advising them how to establish dozens of false identities in order to set up bank accounts, get credit cards, claim student grants, income support, housing benefits and make false insurance claims.

One group was defrauding government departments of £7.5m a year.

EXPLOITING

A senior detective told how the Nigerian 'mafia' was "cynically exploiting our welfare system and service industries."

According to the Sunday Times, "The syndicates are almost exclusively illegal immigrants on visitors' visas." The report, however, emphasised that "most Nigerians are honest and hard working."

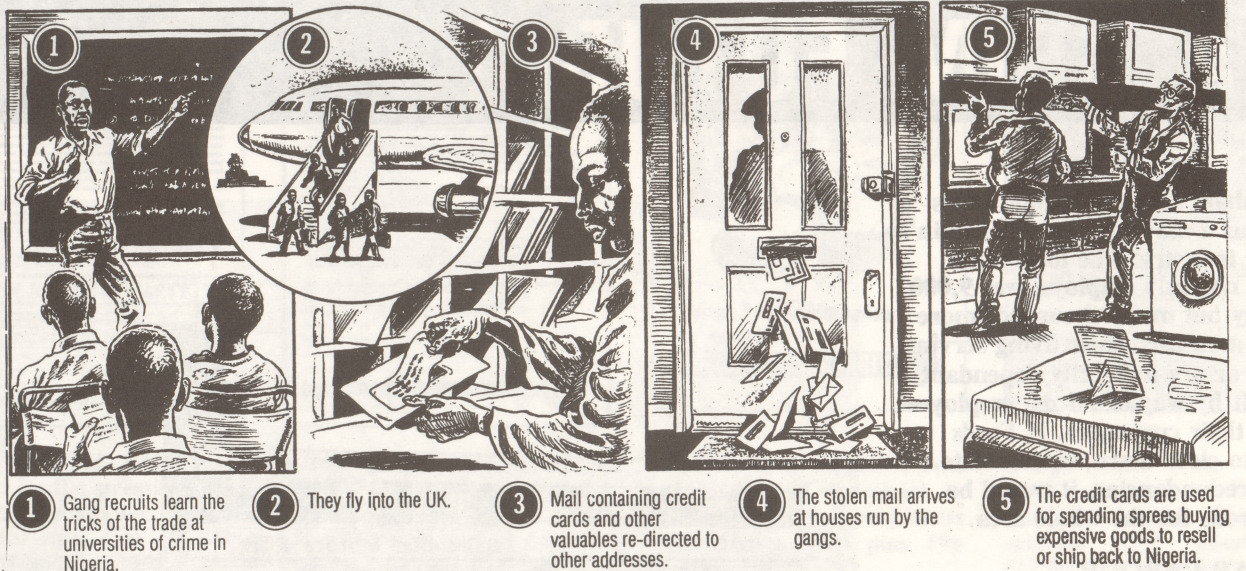

The syndicates are divided into secret cells, rather like the IRA. A typical cell includes a counterfeiter, a drug dealer, a bank worker, and a housing officer to set up false addresses.

The key to criminal success is the obtaining of a birth certificate. With this, the fraudster can obtain all the other forms of official ID, such as national insurance numbers, benefits documents, credit cards etc.

Other soft targets include student grants and loans. Michael Olusoji, an illegal immigrant from Nigeria using 37 aliases, was jailed in April 1993 for tricking 17 British universities into paying him £89,000 in grant cheques — without ever attending a lecture.

Money raised through fraud is then often used to invest in the drugs trade.

Five steps to a fortune: how the African fraud gangs operate

THIS Sunday Times report shows how fraud gangs cheat Britain's benefits system

South Africa falls — and the slaughter begins

NATIONALISTS' joy at the BNP's victories this month was tinged with sadness over the fall of South Africa.

Despite brave resistance by the AWB, white apathy won the day. The real watershed was not last month's elections, but the 'yes' vote in last year's referendum when whites effectively voted themselves out of existence by choosing to hold the "non-racial" election in the first place.

ENEMIES

To most outsiders — including many white nationalists — the whites in South Africa have got no more than they deserved. Surely, any society which voluntarily hands over power to its bitterest enemies is beyond saving?

Yet this would be a foolishly short term view. Indeed, the same argument has been used by weak-minded individuals in Britain, regarding the BNP's crusade to save our own country. "If British whites are so corrupt, stupid and greedy as to allow mass immigration" they say, "what's the point of saving them?"

FUTURE GENERATIONS

The answer is, that we are not just concerned about the welfare of today's whites, but more importantly, that of future generations. We believe only a tiny minority of our people are genuinely 'evil' — most people are simply unaware that they are being duped, or are too scared to admit that they know the truth.

Our kinfolk in South Africa were no different to us in this respect. Just as in Britain, they were swindled by a combination of threats, bullying and false promises. They were told by their media that if they did not vote to end Apartheid, the ANC would unleash a revolution in which white women and children would be slaughtered in their thousands and the country would go up in flames. On the other hand, if whites voted 'yes', they would be allowed to continue their privileged lifestyle in peace. It was a seductive propaganda campaign, and whites fell for it just as whites in our own country fall for the lies of the media.

So what happens now? We've been through this scenario before, in Kenya, Rhodesia, and other former British colonies. White rulers hand over power to terrorists, who promise a bright new "democratic" future. The left-wing media gloat over the defeat of "white tyranny" and tell us

Daily Mail 128 PAGES FOR 32p

Seconds after this picture was taken, the neo-Nazi begging for mercy was shot dead and South Africa edged closer to civil war

EXECUTION

A WHITE South African begs for his life. But the black soldier standing over him showed no mercy and seconds after this picture was taken yesterday he was shot dead.

GLORYING in the slaughter: The Daily Mail gloated over the murder of three white South Africans in the run-up to the so-called "non-racial election." The disgraceful article above claims the man pictured "begged for his life" before being "executed" by a black soldier. In fact this is a lie; what the victim actually said was: "Help us, get some medical help" — a not unreasonable request considering that one of his comrades had just been seriously wounded during an ANC terrorist ambush. Ironically, the victims were members of an AWB force trying to protect the black population of Bophutatswana, a black homeland threatened with invasion by Mandela's ANC terrorists. But in the eyes of the Mail and the rest of the controlled media, the three men brutally gunned down were "nazis" and the cold-blooded murder of the wounded men was an "execution."

a bright new "democratic" future. The left-wing media gloat over the defeat of "white tyranny" and tell us how wonderful the new "multi-party" regime will be. Within a few months, the new marxist President will quietly decide to cancel future elections due to some "temporary" emergency, and later, it will be announced that the country will in future be a "one party state" — in other words, a tin-pot communist dictatorship.

By this time, the media will have found a more fashionable cause to promote. How often is the fate of Rhodesia mentioned by the media nowadays? We were promised a wonderful era of justice and equality for that country too, but since Robert Mugabe came to power thousands have died in inter-tribal warfare.

South Africa's downfall is nothing short of a tragedy. To avoid sharing a similar fate, we would do well to think about why it happened.

When white colonists first arrived in South Africa over 300 years ago, the country was virtually empty of black inhabitants. But white plantation owners soon began importing black workers from outside the country to provide cheap labour. As the country's economy developed, whites became dependent on cheap black labour.

After 1945, just as in the rest of the Western world, the cancer of liberalism began to take hold of South African society. The real danger was not from the communist ANC, who were never more than a minor irritant to the security forces, but from internal dissent among fellow whites, within 'liberal' circles and within the media.

Sounds familiar? British people should take note.

Lebanese scrounger finds rich pickings in Britain...

LEBANESE jet-setter Anthony Gemayel scooped over £5,000 in British housing benefit — while making frequent flights around the world.

Gemayel made five foreign trips in four months, with the return dates coinciding with the collection dates for his benefit cheques.

Gemayel pleaded guilty to dishonestly obtaining housing benefit for his luxury apartment in fashionable Kensington. He turned up in court wearing an expensive grey suit, carrying a mobile phone.

Instead of being deported, Gemayel was given a community service order and allowed to stay in Britain — claiming £44 a week income support.

British People trashed in their own country

POLITICALLY CORRECT LOBBY LAUNCHES ALL-OUT ASSAULT ON BRITISH CULTURE AND TRADITIONS

Outrage exploded among ordinary Brits just recently when Birmingham council announced that the city would have no Christmas decorations in order to avoid "offending other religions" — meaning Islam, Hinduism and other alien creeds imported to our shores as part and parcel of modern-day mass immigration.

But this was only the latest in a long catalogue of assaults on our national culture and traditions. Last November a child-minder on Greenwich council's pay-roll suddenly discovered what day of the week it was when a Rastafarian inspector from the loony-left local authority told her she was to have her official certificate withdrawn.

'RACIST' GOLLIWOG

Mrs Deena Newton was put to the ban because the inspector had discovered a golliwog in her home which she gave to children in her care to play with. In addition she had Enid Blyton's Noddy books which feature a golliwog character.

The inspector had said he was "personally offended." He denied that he had "big white eyes and a red mouth." According to the council's policy, summarised in a booklet by the self-styled 'Working Group Against Racism in Children's Resources', golliwogs "have no place in our society."

Instead of traditional toys and games of the kind British kids have always played this crazy document says child-minders must now use puppets with saris or representing 'single-parent families'. It adds that jigsaws showing what are described as "white middle class families" must be replaced with others portraying multi-racial communities living in tower blocks or terraces.

Great European children's classics, such as the story of the Ugly Duckling turning into a beautiful white swan, are called 'negative' and recommended for the trash can. The Three Little Pigs are offensive to Moslems, and have been outlawed.

Greenwich council have said that statements allegedly made by Mrs Newton during the Rasta's inspection raised questions about her ability to work "positively with families whose views and values did not fit in with her own."

'RACIST' PUB SIGN

At about the same time the villagers of Yarnfield, Staffordshire, woke up to find that the age-old sign on a local pub had been removed. All of a sudden the sign at the Labour in Vain, which portrays a white husband and wife trying to scrub a black child in a wooden bathtub clean, had been declared "racist." A sign of this design has hung on the pub for the last 150 years.

The moving force behind the change seems to have been a certain Mrs Barbara Wasserburg — someone who may have some sort of a 'minority' angle of her own.

Wasserburg loudly equated the pub sign with "slavery and bear-fighting."

INSOLENT ASSAULT

Instead of standing by its customers, who were deeply angered by this insolent assault on their local traditions, Bass Breweries gutlessly caved in to Wasserburg's pressure. Bass Taverns' public relations manager, Jerry Watson, whined that the old

WE recently reported how decades-old comic-strip football hero Roy of the Rovers was replaced by a black character, Delroy. Now the 'politically correct' lobby has gone a stage further. After a black youngster (Above) complained that there were no black players in the Subbuteo England squad, the toy company which makes the game was forced to alter its plastic figures to include a number of black players (Right). This was of course presented as a great victory for 'anti-racism', but in the long run will probably harm race relations by further antagonising white people, many of whom feel increasingly threatened by the erosion of their traditions. The same could be said about recent pressure from the PC lobby to introduce 'non-racial' casting in theatres, television and cinema. We have become used to seeing 'sympathetic' black characters being written into popular TV soaps, but only where the script specifically involves a black character. Now, however, it has been decreed that black, white or Asian actors should be cast irrespective of the script. Thus, we have a black actor (Right) playing the part of Heathcliff in a new production of Wuthering Heights — a play set in an eighteenth century Yorkshire village, when there were virtually no black people in Britain. This is historically inaccurate, and as absurd as casting a white man to play Martin Luther King.

sign, since replaced by one of Wasserburg's design, was "not in keeping with modern thinking."

Meanwhile, Leeds City Council has paid out £12,000 of council taxpayers' money to provide the local Sikh immigrant minority with a special platform overhanging the river Aire, right next to Kirkenstall Abbey — one of Britain's oldest monasteries — from which they can throw dead relatives' ashes into the water. The platform, described by residents as an eyesore and a danger to their children, who might fall into the river and drown, has been justified on the grounds that Leeds is no longer a British city but a 'multi-cultural' one.

Left-wing councillor Neil Taggart says that the council must "cater for everyone." But in fact Sikhs have no true need for installations of this kind over British rivers. Local Britons for their part have no need of alien religious ceremonies next to one of their country's most ancient Christian establishments.

Tory hypocrite John Patten, Education Secretary, whose department has gone out of its way to write compulsory 'multi-cultural' brainwashing requirements into the nation's school curriculum, including the shire counties which are still mainly white, recently urged that his party should "take back" the Union Jack. He did not do this in response to the insults it has suffered at the hands of the left, some of whom recently burnt the national flag in an 'anti-racist' riot at east London's Brick Lane area — a riot staged with the permission of Tory Home Secretary Michael 'Howard'. He did so in response to the victory of the genuine patriot, councillor Derek Beackon in the Millwall election. It is only the BNP he doesn't want to fly the flag.

Not surprisingly the war against the Union Flag by Labour fanatics and their friends has gone on unhindered. When Hounslow council removed Britain's flag from Chiswick town hall and installed a communist ANC flag instead, local Tories complained to Patten.

But it seems he did nothing. In the end they had to climb to the top of the town hall early one morning and install a Union Flag for themselves.

ATTACK

This story puts the matter in a nut-shell. The attack on British identity may have been mounted at a local level by Labour, but it has been given a green light by the Tory government at national level during the last 14 years they have been in office. In this time Britain has been swamped by alien cultures. In fact both Labour and the Tories want this mass immigration, for votes and cheap labour.

Another Labour councillor jailed

YET another corrupt Labour councillor has been jailed.

Nam Dev Bagla, 38, was sent to prison for three years following the dishonest handling of £150,000 worth of stolen DSS benefit vouchers.

It was one of the biggest ever frauds involving a Labour councillor. Bagla's wife Davindar was also jailed for a year, after admitting conspiracy to steal.

SHEER GREED

As well as being a Labour councillor, Bagla was also a Justice of the Peace. He earned £27,000 a year at his sub-post office in Priory Road, Dudley. Judge Christopher Hodson told Bagla he had committed a "dreadful" breach of trust out of "sheer greed."

The people who had stolen the benefit vouchers needed a dishonest postmaster to carry out a substantial fraud — and Bagla obliged.

The vouchers were signed by the thieves and passed to Bagla, who passed them through the system and shared the proceeds. The vouchers carried names such as J Major, S Stallone, T Rex and A snake.

Bagla resigned as Labour member for Birmingham City Council's Soho ward on March 25 this year.

EXTRAVAGANT

This appalling case is just one of a series involving Labour councillors

LABOUR councillor Nam Dev Bagla was jailed for three years for dishonestly handling £150,000 worth of benefit vouchers who turn to fraud in order to live an extravagant lifestyle. In recent months, British Nationalist has exposed a number of criminal Labour officials, including paedophiles, rapists and swindlers.

The Labour party has always attracted get-rich-quick spivs, homosexual perverts and other low-life types, but in recent years the criminal activities of some of its officials have become more and more blatant.

If a political party can be judged by the kind of people within its ranks, then the Labour Party is a very odious organisation — certainly not the kind of movement that decent, law-abiding people should support.

Tory MPs who want gay sex for 16s

WE'VE always known that Labour was riddled with perverts and queers, but now the Tories have proved themselves equally disgusting.

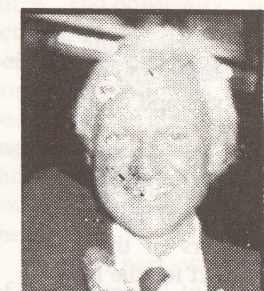

It goes without saying that most Labour MPs voted to lower the age of consent for homosexuality to just sixteen. But we can also reveal that many Tory MPs were equally keen to legalise teenage sodomy.

Top of the list is the odious Edwina Curry, who introduced the Buggery Bill to Parliament.

boys aged sixteen to eighteen. Does this mean that if the age of consent is lowered to sixteen, the police should then turn a blind eye to buggery of boys aged fourteen to sixteen?

MORAL VALUES

This is the way the liberal left works. If it can't achieve its result straight away, a continuous pressure is brought to bear on society, so that all our basic moral values are gradually chipped away. What the Left has failed to achieve by revolution in this country, it is achieving by gradual stealth.

And for all their bluster about 'moral values' and 'back to basics', the Tories are simply too scared of the Hard Left to put up any serious resistance. On homosexuality just as on all the big issues — immigration, law and order, Europe — the Tories put up a smokescreen of verbal resistance while quietly surrendering to the Left.

The truth is, the Tory leadership is just as morally bankrupt as Labour.

LIST OF SHAME

The list of shame goes on and on — we don't have the space to include all the names.

But isn't it disturbing that our 'representatives' in Parliament are so out of touch with ordinary people?

The vast majority of British people are disgusted by homosexuality amongst adults, let alone the thought of allowing sixteen-year-old boys to be bugged. Having achieved the compromise of homosexuality legalised for eighteen-year-olds, queer groups are now demanding that the police should not prosecute men who bugger

TREMENDOUS SUCCESSES IN COUNCIL ELECTIONS

'Huge increase', says enemy newspaper

The recent local government elections must be regarded as a tremendous success for the BNP. Despite our failure to win control of London's Isle of Dogs — in circumstances that have led the party to request an official enquiry into the possibility of electoral malpractice — the story was of progress everywhere, particularly in the London area, where some results were little short of sensational. This is not just our own view. The Independent, a newspaper implacably hostile to the BNP, reported on the Saturday following that the Isle of Dogs defeat "masked a huge increase in local support for the ultra-right organisation."

In Millwall itself, the BNP vote actually increased by a third from Derek Beackon's winning total last September, but Labour won the ward as a result of a massive mobilisation of Asian voters. In a separate report in this bulletin it is explained why we have reason to suspect that a great number of these voters were legally disqualified from taking part in the election.

Elsewhere the BNP made big gains, some of them spectacular. Our candidate in the Beckton Ward of Newham, Michael Davidson, who lost the sight of an eye in a vicious attack on his canvassing team, won 459 votes and came not so far from winning a seat. His colleague Peter Hart obtained 457, the two votes making a total of 33 per cent. In the nearby Custom House & Silvertown Ward the BNP won 2,168 votes, which in a larger ward came to 26.5 per cent of the poll.

In the three other wards of Tower Hamlets where the party stood candidates the votes were exceptionally good — particularly when it is borne in mind that these areas received a fraction of the input of activity that was given to Millwall.

In drawing up a general summary of votes and poll percentages we have to make allowance for the fact that in some areas the BNP was standing one candidate while the main parties were fielding two or three. The percentages here have to be calculated in accordance with the probable total of votes the BNP would have won had it entered the full number of candidates to which it was entitled. This percentage is obtained by multiplying the BNP vote by two or three, as the case may be. The full results were as follows:-

Tower Hamlets (Millwall): Derek Beackon 2,041; Gordon Callow 1,775; Alan Smith 1,713; Total 27.7 per cent. Tower Hamlets (Holy Trinity): Dave King 786; Paul McHale 737; Linda Miller 743; Total 25.0 per cent. Tower Hamlets (St. James): Vic Dooley 653 (22.0 per cent). Tower Hamlets (St. Peters): Paul Maxwell 889 (19.9 per cent). Newham (Beckton): Michael Davidson 459; Peter Hart 457; Total 33.0 per cent. Newham (Custom House & Silvertown): Jeff Edmunds 759; A. Parker 737; Kevin Vinicombe 672. Total 26.5 per cent. Barking (Thames): Gary Hewitt 252 (13.9 per cent). Redbridge (Goodmayes): Paul Bixby 145 (8.5 per cent). Eltham (Sherard): Bill Hitches 324 (12.5 per cent). Hounslow (Heston): Warren Glass 187 (8.7 per cent). Hillingdon (Heathrow): Robert Church 201 (10 per cent). Sutton (Rosehill): Jennifer Oliver 199 (7.6 per cent). Broxbourne (Rosedale): Dave Bruce 123 (10.0 per cent). Reading (North West): G. Coles 130 (5.0 per cent). Calderdale (Illingsworth): Robert Mitchell 181 (6.0 per cent). Calderdale (Todmorden): Chris Jackson 158 (3.8 per cent). Birmingham (Oscott): Keith Axon 422 (5.8 per cent). Sunderland (Silksworth): Kevin Scott 171 (4.4 per cent). Rochdale (Smallbridge): Ken Henderson 208 (5.1 per cent). Rochdale (Newbold): Janet Appleyard 171 (5.6 per cent). Rochdale (Balderstone): Ian Baker 138 (5.3 per cent). Stoke-on-Trent (Fenton Green): Steve Batkin 170 (5.6 per cent).

It will be seen that the best BNP votes were in or near to London. Votes elsewhere in the country were not as high, but where they were in areas that had been fought in the past they represented improvements. In no place were the votes really bad. In effect, the BNP results varied from fair to magnificent. Some of the London votes outside Millwall can be seen as especially good when it is remembered how much the party concentrated its efforts in Derek Beackon's ward, with the result that campaigns elsewhere in London were fought with relatively small teams and much less election literature.

The BNP's success in this year's local government elections reflects the remarkable progress that has been made by the party in recent times. It also reflects the rapidly accelerating disintegration of the old order of politics in Britain. The present Tory Government is widely seen as the worst within living memory, but the 'alternatives' of Labour and Liberal Democrat inspire little confidence or hope, and at best can be seen as desperation choices in the effort to get rid of John Major and his gang. There can be no doubt about the future. Whether this year, next year or in five or ten years' time, it belongs to us!

MILLWALL HERO

DEREK Beackon (Right) has every reason to be proud of his achievements as the BNP's first councillor. Despite Labour's 'victory' in Millwall last month, Del picked up over five hundred more votes than when he was first elected back in September. Indeed, local whites in Millwall expressed astonishment and dismay that the BNP did not win the election, as most of Millwall was solidly behind him. There is still an air of disbelief hanging over the Isle of Dogs, and many locals have backed the BNP's demand for an enquiry into possible electoral fraud.

Hundreds of Asians were bussed in to the polling stations, with seven arrested for multiple voting.

A local business magazine, the Eastside Digest, stated just before the election: "There are hundreds of voters in the Millwall Ward of Tower Hamlets to whom the BNP's first councillor, Derek Beackon is a local hero. Digest staffers have been getting calls from Millwall residents praising the work of the councillor they now call 'Del'."

Del is still a hero to Millwall folk, many of whom have vowed to boycott the odious trio of new Labour councillors.

Derek Beackon will continue to help ordinary people on the Isle of Dogs, and eagerly looks forward to the day when the BNP will once again represent the people of Millwall in the council chamber.

BNP applies for enquiry into Millwall election

Did illegal immigrants vote Labour?

On the weekend following the local government elections, the agent for the three BNP candidates in Millwall Ward of Tower Hamlets delivered a formal request to the borough's returning officer for a full judicial enquiry into the conduct of the election so as to ascertain whether certain malpractices have occurred. This request is based on the following considerations:-

(1) Information has reached us that a very large number of Asian inhabitants of Millwall Ward are in fact illegal immigrants and that many of these may have voted in the recent election.

(2) Some families in the ward who support the BNP have told us that ballot papers were sent to family members under 18 and therefore not qualified to vote. This opens up the question of how many such papers were sent to under-age members of Asian families and were subsequently used by other Asians to cast illegal votes.

(3) One young woman BNP supporter has testified that almost the whole of the voters in her immediate neighbourhood were solidly pro-BNP. Yet she later witnessed the box containing the ballot papers for that neighbourhood being opened and noticed that nearly all the votes in a random count were for Labour. Was there a switching of boxes on the way from the polling station to the count? We intend that an enquiry should cover such questions.

It should be matter of interest to our members that a number of people in Tower Hamlets not connected with the BNP but whose political affiliations lie elsewhere are also convinced that there has been a degree of malpractice in this election.

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of our fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish Agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- Repeal of the laws permitting homosexuality and abortion (except where the latter is the result of rape or necessary on medical grounds), the wiping out of AIDS and a return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.

£1,000 REWARD FOR INFORMATION

Following the horrific attack on BNP candidate Michael Davidson in Newham recently, which occurred while he was peacefully canvassing for votes in the local council election, the BNP has established a fund, with a target of £1,000, for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons responsible. Michael lost an eye in the unprovoked assault on him, and the Party is determined to see those concerned brought to justice. To start the fund, two senior Party members have contributed £100 each. Contributions should be sent to: The Secretary, PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW. Please attach a note INSIDE the envelope stating 'Reward Fund'. Donors are advised not to state 'Reward Fund' on the OUTSIDE of the envelope, as this may encourage theft by leftist employees within the Post Office.
